

Letter of introduction

Attn: Veterinary Professionals

Your client is seeking a referral for my services. It is my hope that this letter serves to clarify my qualifications, my role, and my goals so that you can decide if your client would benefit from the services I offer. I work with dogs of all breeds, ages, and abilities to improve strength, balance, proprioception, and flexibility via canine conditioning. I also offer small animal bodywork sessions to help improve animals' overall well-being.

Background

I have been a Certified Professional Canine Fitness Trainer (CPCFT) since 2018. The CPCFT program was offered by Dr. Deborah Torraca, DPT, MSPT, Diplomat ABPTS, CCRP through the Fenzi Dog Sports Academy. The requirements of becoming a CPCFT include: (i) completed a series of four CPCFT courses as an active participant, (ii) completed and passed four comprehensive case studies, and (iii) passed the final examination with a grade of at least 82%.

I completed the requirements of the Small Animal Acupressure Practitioner program at Tallgrass Animal Acupressure in 2021. I was certified as a Canine Therapeutic Massage Therapist (CTMT), Advanced Canine Massage Therapist (ACMT), and Senior Canine Massage Therapist (SCMT) at the Rocky Mountain School of Animal Acupressure and Massage in 2022.

I continue my professional development by taking courses and seminars. I have worked with a variety of dogs of all ages, from puppies to senior dogs with disabilities, from different backgrounds, including pet dogs, rescue dogs, and performance dogs.

Canine conditioning

My private conditioning coaching sessions are customized to the specific needs of each dog and the abilities of the owner. Conditioning programs are designed to improve strength, balance, body awareness, and flexibility of the dog. Proper form and safety of the dog (and owner) are consistently emphasized. The degree of difficulty of each exercise is adapted based on the dog's initial condition, as well as their feedback as we progress through the program.

Small animal bodywork

My small animal bodywork sessions are tailored to the specific needs of each individual animals. The duration and the extent of the bodywork will depend on the feedback on the animal at the time of the session. Appropriate at-home recommendations will be made and a written session report will be provided after each session.

Insurance

I am fully insured by Kennel Pro for canine conditioning, small animal acupressure and massage.

Benefits and Limitations

My goals are to provide canine fitness and conditioning services as well as small animal bodywork which are complementary to regular veterinary care and/or continued strengthening after completing rehabilitative programs. I also aim to educate the public so they can recognize potential areas of concern and follow up with their veterinarian and/or other professional care providers.

Please note that I am not a veterinarian. I do not make diagnosis and/or treat injuries, illnesses, or diseases. Dogs who seek my services after an injury or illness must provide written veterinary clearance. When concerns are noted, clients will be directed to seek appropriate care from their veterinarian and/or other professional care providers (e.g., physical therapist, rehabilitation therapist, or chiropractor).

Reason(s) for referral:

At Core Pawtential, our canine conditioning programs focus on improving strength, balance, proprioception, and flexibility. Can this pet safely participate in a conditioning program?

YES NO

Are there any modifications that need to be made, precautions we should take, or movements/exercises this pet should avoid when participating in the conditioning program?

Are there any areas you would like us to focus on when designing a conditioning program and/or during the bodywork session?

Does this dog have any prior injuries and/or conditions that we should be aware of when designing a conditioning program and/or during the bodywork session?

Please note that Core Pawtential offers canine conditioning and small animal bodywork only. We are NOT a rehabilitation program; we do not diagnose or treat injuries, illness, or disease. All dogs who require canine conditioning services after an injury or illness must provide written veterinary clearance. When concerns are noted, clients will be directed to seek medical attention from their veterinarian and/or other professional care providers. If you have any questions, please feel free to contact me at corepawtential@gmail.com or 571-208-6458.
